Not illustrated. 1921 Excerpt: .Civil Service Commission (1889-1895) in the Commission offices in Washington; on the other hand, all the correspondence files covering the period of his presidency of the New York Police Board (1895-1897) have been destroyed. Two out of five letter-press books are all that remain to represent the year he served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy; the files of his years as Governor of New York are very incomplete. Of the countless letters written with his own hand during these years there are no copies in existence. Much important material has already been received from members of the Roosevelt family, who appear to recognize that Roosevelt House (which is of fire-proof construction and, in addition, is protected by the most modern system of fire-detection) is the logical place for valuable Rooseveltiana. Mrs. Roosevelt has deposited all of Mr. Roosevelt's boyhood letters with the Association, and...
